Read the text carefully. You might need to read it more than once and it would be good to share the story with someone in your house before you answer the questions.

The questions are split into four different content domains. Do you remember our display about this from the classroom?

Answer one set of questions each day. Please make sure that your answers:

- are in full sentences that make sense
- use the text to give details that justify your answers
- stick to the content domain that you are focussing on that day.

The text is a really nice story about a boy, his father and an animal that they are looking after. If you would like an extension task, why don't you imagine that this is going to be released as a new book. Can you design the front cover for the book?
