BLOCKBUSTER

Here is a review of the latest summer blockbuster film. Some of the language is 'over the top' in the hope that you will be persuaded to go and see it. Write down all the similes and metaphors you can find and some of the more interesting adjectives.

THE REVIEW

It's aliens versus the robot dinosaurs in this must-see, big-budget mammoth of a blockbuster: Dinotron Uprising.

Set in a fantasy future, where the entire human population has skipped off to Mars to leave it to our mechanical, freaky friends, the Dinotrons – like a car park of heaving, scaly, self-drive reptiles – to protect the Earth from the muscle-bound, makers of mayhem, the Zameleons.

The trouble began when, still inhabiting the home planet, we let the compulsory bad guy – a temper tantrum in a hat and ill-fitting moustache – set up a zoo for inter-planetary aliens. Cue the careless zookeeper and you have sloppiness-on-a-stick forgetting to lock up properly. For a while, the shape-shifting Zameleons behave like a bunch of rather disgruntled shoppers. If that weren't scary enough, they soon get grumpier and capture our wise-cracking hero, Chuck.

Bring on the Dinotrons. Being eaten by a metal T Rex is like jumping into the shredder, so don't try this at home. Of course, the word, "Run!" is not part of their programming.

The stage is set for the ultimate confrontation. We can only hope and pray that either a Dinotron or a Zameleon eats Chuck before he inflicts any more of his awful jokes on us.

Adjectives

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Similes

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Metaphors

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

© Copyright HeadStart Primary Ltd 2016